Rob Whiteman,
Chief Executive, LB Barking & Dagenham

London

Presentation……

- Why localism?
- The narrative of a place……..B&D
- The policy and delivery network
- Some thoughts on next steps

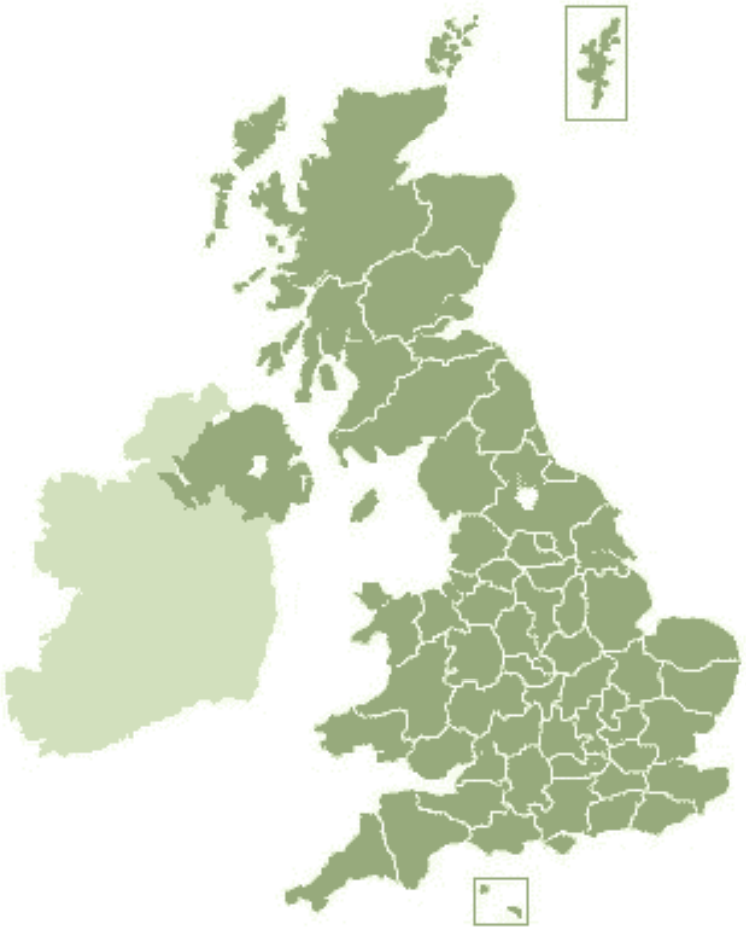
Why localism?

- Outputs have not changed outcomes
- Betters services have not displaced pessimism about the future
- New performance management framework
- Local Area Agreements (LAAs)
- Joined up delivery through prioritisation and partnership

- But localism = is regional + national + local

National Challenges

- The economy
- Health and quality of life
- Antisocial behaviour
- Climate Change
- Education and skills



Regional Challenges

- Gun and knife crime
- Housing supply
- Migration
- Health services
- Olympics
- World class public services for a world class city

Local Challenges

Challenges

- low post-industrial skills base
- demographic change and migration
- trust and credibility
- cost and budget pressures
- industrial scale change
- Building community capacity

And many opportunities

Our Approach

- strong delivery of the “bread and butter”
- ambition and improved outcomes
- strong partnership – it’s public money
- Innovation through partnership
- shared intelligence, analytical capacity and policy development
- Not just services to reflect the place; but to change it!

Be clear on the prevailing outcome……

And in 10-15 years…

Networks not chains……

- It's central not federal
- but local too……
- post code variations
  stop national lotteries!
- places need "whole government"
- LAA is the start of the process for:
  faster and better delivery
- PSA targets are met in different ways in different places.

Next steps……

- A new system needs a new type of leadership with different behaviours
- Policy must be framed by analysis but developed against the test of delivery
- Innovation = experiment + take risks + and understand
- Outcomes are not changed by uniformity and micro prescription
- Don’t “let go” but ……. PUSH!
- A new era without partnership silos
