‘Inclusive Internationalization’ Workshop

- Tuesday, April 29, 9 am -2 pm
- Small, interactive high level session
- To examine dimensions and meaning of inclusiveness in internationalization
- To move focus from rhetoric and aspirations of Statements to identification of strategies to achieve ‘inclusive’ internationalization

A few dimensions of Inclusiveness

- Choice of institutional partners
- Target countries and regions
- Disciplines
- Who participates
- Who benefits
- Institutional missions (teaching/learning, research, outreach/engagement/service)

Why the Workshop

- IAU – long tradition of research and advocacy on internationalization (Global Surveys, Statements)
- Global membership brings sensitivity to diversity of rationales, goals, expectations and concerns
- In 2012 partnered with Going Global to hold a series of working groups on 'Re-thinking internationalization' to raise various issues
- In 2012: Call for Action to affirm academic goals as central to the internationalization process
- In 2014: Global Dialogue in SA to pursue the goal of a more 'inclusive' approach to internationalization

Workshop participants and leaders

- Nigel Harris, Vice Chancellor, University of West Indies and IAU Board member

- Madeleine Green, IAU and NAFSA Senior Fellow, USA

- Participating university and association leaders from:

  Brazil, the Bahamas, Canada, Colombia, Mexico, UK, USA, West Indies
